As per Jyotish transits Shukra (Venus) has entered the sign of Kanya (Virgo) yesterday, on 1st August 2010. As we all know, Kanya is the Neech rashi for Shukra, which means that this brightest of all planets becomes debilitated and weak in this parched and dry sign ruled by Mercury.

The previous transit of Venus in Virgo was from 10th October 2009 to 3rd November 2009. Its next similar transit in Virgo will be from 10th September 2011 to 4th October 2011. In the ongoing year, 2010, Shukra will stay in Virgo for one month, from 1st August 2010 to 1st September 2010. This is a little longer than usual period of 25 days for Venus' stay in any sign. This is due to the slowing down of Venus before it stalls in Libra and then goes retrograde in Libra in October 2010.

Virgo is a dry, emotionless and quite non-artistic sign. Venus, on the other hand, is promoter of arts and entertainment, love, affection, luxuries and peace. Such a benevolent, warm and 'freedom of thought' advocating planet becomes trapped in the dry, parched, non-affectionate and barren limits of Virgo. Further, the inherent wisdom and tolerance which Venus displays in other signs are also curbed and suppressed when it transits in Virgo. Here, Venus cries out for support from other planets to keep up its positive attitude and happy outlook towards life.

There is some support for Venus in Virgo this time and it comes from Saturn and Mars which are already in a yuti in Kanya. Also, Jupiter directly aspects Virgo from Pisces where it is in a retrograde motion these days. These three planets will compensate the weakness of Venus by throwing in their own powers into the combination of these four planets. So, the lack of warmth and affection which is usually seen when Venus is in Virgo will be greatly compensated by the aggression and desires of Mars and the benevolent helpfulness of Jupiter. Saturn gives stability to this combined play of these planets.

The result will be a general increase in the work efficiency of people. Any work which has been stalled due to lack of motivation will begin now. Although this is not a time to buy new vehicles or to enter a new home, any plans which were already underway will be implemented with full force. This is also a beneficial period for those who are in businesses of raw material supply for construction work, vehicles, infrastructure development and electronics industry.

The negative results of this transit will be mainly on the sale of finished and high end products in these very industries. Automobiles sales will be negatively effected. There can be big setbacks in the travel and tourism industry. As this transit takes place in the tenth house from Rahu, the terrorist activities may be responsible for some major setbacks to these industries.

Natural calamities, epidemics and vehicular accidents will increase. The crime against women will go up. The lust and greed will dominate over logic, morality and self control. Some major steps of progress may be taken by those who stand for the rights of the people with abnormal sexual preferences. But, at the same time some rules and regulations over the socially unacceptable pleasure industries will be imposed in some parts of the world by the authorities.
