

Jupiter, Sun and Mercury were already in transit in Meen (Pisces) and today Mars too has joined them. Mars will leave Pisces to enter Aries on 3rd May 2011. Earlier, Shukra changed its sign on 22nd March 2011 and had left Capricorn to enter Aquarius. It will leave kumbh on 16th April 2011. Surya will enter Aries on 14th April 2011.

Mercury will enter Aries on 28th March 2011 but will get into a retrograde motion on 31st March 2011 only to re-enter Pisces on 2nd April 2011. Budh will then take a longer time in Meen and will finally leave it on 11th May 2011. It becomes direct in Pisces on 23rd April 2011.

As Jupiter will now be included in the Sun-Mars combination, the ongoing rebellions and unrest in countries like Egypt, Libya, Bahrain and other nations will begin to get support from the lawmakers. And, a rule of law, not proper but still effective, will begin to be implemented in most of these nations. But, some other nations may witness unrest and voices of dissent emanating from within their own armed forces.

Stock markets will revive slowly but as Budh and Jupiter get nearer in degrees, around mid-April, serious fluctuations will take place in stock indexes. The day traders must stay cautious and it is advisable to stay away from putting in large bids on basis of the margin money account only.

Banking sector and taxation related reforms will be implemented, but the end result will not make much difference for the common man. Internet and internet based services will come under scanner by different governments. Bad time for websites like wikileaks and piratebay.
