

Are these jyotish remedial gems really helpful?

Written by Ashutosh

Tuesday, 15 February 2011 10:54

Most of the people who have never worn remedial Jyotish gemstones, but are eager to wear them, do have this question in their minds. As these gemstones, especially the original and untreated natural gemstones, can be quite expensive, this question is a very valid question. In fact, one cannot know really about the efficacy of gems until one wears them or one has seen the good effects on people around them who have been wearing the Jyotish gemstones.

Well! these gemstones are really very effective and are the best remedies which can be used to control the negative or positive effects of the planets in a horoscope. How exactly they work is not very clear but they act as transformers of energies derived from the body and mind of the wearer and then given back to the same wearer after multiplying these energies manifolds.

Many people have been seen to gain great benefits by wearing suitable gems at proper muhurats. Many a times an unfavorable dasha period's negativity has been reduced, a persistent sickness has been alleviated or a new series of positive developments has been unleashed by a small but powerful gem. But, gem therapy has some important rules which must be followed by all gem wearers.

There are some important musts in gem therapy. First, the gems should be worn only on basis of the strength of the planets in one's horoscope. One should never wear remedial gems just because one likes the colour or because it is expensive or rare or is in fashion. Always consult a good astrologer before buying the gemstones.

Second, the gems must be natural, untreated and only first hand in use. Treated gemstones are totally ineffective as remedies, though they may look good on ornamental jewelery. As most of the gems in markets today are either synthetic or treated ones, the natural untreated gems are becoming rarer and costlier. But, if you want to get the true benefits of gems then wear only untreated natural gems.

The gems must not be used-gems as the negative energies from the previous owners may be transferred to the new wearers. Used gems can be worn only when they belong to a close family member who has received only positive results from wearing them. All other used gems must be polished and cut again to change their shape and size before they become suitable for wearing.

Third, the gems must be worn in proper metal and at their proper muhurats. Gems worn in unsuitable metal, in rings or pendants, or worn in bad muhurats do not give the desired positive results. So, your astrologer should also tell you the correct time to wear the gems. The procedures, including the rituals, of wearing them may differ on basis of your personal religious and spiritual beliefs.

Are these jyotish remedial gems really helpful?

Written by Ashutosh

Tuesday, 15 February 2011 10:54

For buying gemstones from us contact us on -

sales@jyotish.biz

Jyotish Biz